

Mathieu Chaumont is the Director of Sustainable Sourcing, with Harmless Harvest since 2013.

He led the US Supply Chain from San Francisco before moving to Thailand where he launched the Harmless Harvest Organic program and helped the brand become the first Fair For Life coconut water worldwide. Witnessing the direct consequences of climate change and unsuitable agricultural practices in hundreds of farms across South East Asia, his priorities shifted towards regenerative agriculture and other global warming mitigation initiatives. He strongly believes companies intending to sustainably fuel their growth must dedicate increasing time and resources to soil health improvement, soil erosion reduction, ethical land use and family farming promotion.
