

Dan Pathomvanich
CEO, NR Instant produce PCL (“NRF”)

Dan is CEO of NR Instant produce PCL “NRF” a leading specialty food manufacturer based in Thailand. NRF is about to go public on the Stock Exchange of Thailand in 2020 and will be the first publicly listed company focused on a building a global plant based food co-manufacturing platform for brands around the world. Dan co-founded under NRF, Big Idea ventures the worlds first and largest alternative protein accelerator with $50million under management. As a global champion and thought leader for sustainability NRF today is spearheading the drive towards a global green economy. NRF is the first factory in Thailand within the food category to go carbon neutral, is the first to commit to the 1.5 degree pledge as well as the first purpose driven company to list on the Stock exchange of Thailand.

Prior to NRF he has completed more than a billion dollars on acquisition primarily focused on the food sector. Dan also sits on the Executive Council of Proterra Asia the world’s largest food fund, an advisor to CP Capital, the Food Champion for YPO on the Sustainability business network, Committee member on Environment for the Global Compact and amongst others Chairman of the Path Foundation dedicated to helping the poor through education.

Dan’s primary passion is to accelerate the transition the world to an inclusive and sustainable green economy. He graduated with a BS in finance from Thammasat University and a master’s in international economics from Chulalongkorn university. Dan is also class of 2018 Harvard President’s program, Institute of Directors DCP class of 203 and Capital market academy 30.