

Mr. David Robinson, Managing Director at Vivid Bangkok

I am a conduit, an intermediary, and a facilitator. My diverse experience has made me adaptable to change, inquiring of new opportunities, open to doing things differently. It's meant that I have come in contact with people from varied backgrounds and professions. As a result I find it easy to make connections, innovate processes and lead change.

Over the years I have connected programmes with audiences, connected brands with consumers, connected business with partners, clients and suppliers, management with staff. I help the companies create new brands, provide new products and services, develop new revenue streams, and attract talented people.

Forging partnerships, creating great work and delivering on a promise are the everyday things that drive me.
